Perhaps, I have no any special requirements for a man but honesty and openness. I just need that man who really wants to be with me, never for a moment doubting that I am the one that he needs. Reliability and care are the foundations for any good and strong relationships. I just want the man not to be afraid of his feelings for me, not to show any indecision, even if it's hidden. He shouldn't be ashamed of showing me to his friends and family. He also doesn't have to close his soul from me on a thick padlock out of fear that I may hurt him, because cowardice and man are antonym words. Love and courage always go in a pair, in my opinion. This is an ordinary story about the most ordinary girl, about a girl who wanted to find respect and understanding in this cruel world, in a world in which nobody needs her... She was alone... alone all time.... In a world where greediness, selfishness and cruelty rule ... the book reveals how everyone offended this girl. This book shows each of her falls, but she stood up and went on ... And then one day she met a man who loved her. .. A real man who put his heart and pride at her feet Who sacrificed everything that he had then ... He gave his life to her ... This is the most precious thing that he had before he met her ... And you know, he was ready to die without her ... When he lost her, he lost all sense in his life ... What do I want ??? I want to meet a person with whom I can find this meaning in life ... I want to find myself ... It seems to me that a man whom I wish to meet will be able to open myself to me ... Maybe you will try? Waiting for your reply.

Description

Anyone who reads Old and Middle English literary texts will be familiar with the mid-brown volumes of the EETS, with the symbol of Alfred's jewel embossed on the front cover. Most of the works attributed to King Alfred or to Aelfric, along with some of those by bishop Wulfstan and much anonymous prose and verse from the pre-Conquest period, are to be found within the Society's three series; all of the surviving medieval drama, most of the Middle English romances, much religious and secular prose and verse including the English works of John Gower, Thomas Hoccleve and most of Caxton's prints all find their place in the publications. Without EETS editions, study of medieval English texts would hardly be possible.

I like open, uncomplexed men. For which there are no taboos and prohibitions. A man does not need to specify what to do and when. What can I say about my ideal relationship with a man. I'm a young lady and so for me the ideal man is someone who will support me in all endeavours.If I decide in 30 years to become a doctor or lawyer, my man should be proud of me. All my wild dreams should not burden him. There are so many different things that people dream about that sometimes it seems that someone has foolish dream and someone such as a pipe. So, what about you?Do you have enough energy to be with a young girl like me? I don't believe that there is an ideal and don't try to find it. I look for something special. The man with whom I will be by itself. With which to me sometimes will be comfortably silent, holding each other by hands. In the relations there has to be a passion and a mutual attraction. To the man and the woman it has to be good both in the afternoon and at night is a pledge of the successful relations.I'm sure that passion is the foundation on which the happy family relations stand! I also would like him to have a positive attitude towards life and surrounding people. I am an optimist and would like to have an optimist by my side. For I think it is a bit hard to deal with pessimistic people. And love to me is a must.

I am looking for my beloved person. He should be clever, generous, sporty, intelligent and with good sense of humor. I want to feel myself in safety with him. I'm not looking for an ideal man, but ideal just for me!!! I know that nobody is perfect, but I'm searching for the one who aims at being perfect. I think that each person has his own second half, so I want to reunite with mine.
